Governing Board members praised both commencement ceremonies and multiple graduation events, including the nursing pinning ceremony, Grossmont Middle College High School graduation, the veterans' ceremony, and the healthcare technology dinner event.

Board President Bill Garrett remarked that Cuyamaca's commencement has nearly outgrown the quad area, and it was fantastic to see how much growth and involvement has taken place, and the diversity of students drawn to the variety of programs. Garrett said he highlighted the District's high school outreach programs at a recent SDICCCA meeting. He thanked both colleges and the District for moving the agenda forward on student success initiatives.

Trustee Greg Barr said the Grossmont College Theater Department fundraising event reached its $30,000 goal to fund a program for high school students and Grossmont Theater Arts students next summer.

Trustee Debbie Justeson noted that graduates come from all walks of life, including those who are coming back for retraining, not just younger adults.

Board Actions

Board members discussed the awarding of a contract to the Strata Information Group for professional management, consulting services, and assistance in the management of the Information Systems Department under docket Item 304.

Rosinski inquired regarding concerns raised about the contract. Vice Chancellor Business Services Sue Rearic responded that many of the questions had come from individuals not fully informed about ongoing District technology issues, such as complex changes in the payroll system that would make the District's payroll system independent from the County Office of Education. Garrett said he would like to see the districtwide departmental survey results relating to Information Systems the next time a survey is administered. Chancellor Cindy Miles said information technology is an area she has given a lot of attention since she arrived at the District. She said she detects misplaced frustration with the questions and service, and described a loss in programming staff who have proved hard to replace due to low salary schedules. Miles said the demand for technology services have gone up exponentially in higher education. She said she was pleased with the increased accountability in the contract with Strata Information Group. Rosinski said she would support item 304, and would like a report to the Board on the results of the survey. The item passed by a vote of 5-0.

Garrett expressed his appreciation for efforts in putting together the District's tentative budget under docket item 305 to be in compliance with the rules and regulations of the State of California. The District will know more in September. Justeson thanked staff for presenting a clear overview of the tentative budget that was easy to understand. Item 305 passed unanimously.

The Governing Board unanimously approved all other items on the meeting agenda by consent.

From Closed Session

The Governing Board gave direction to the Chancellor to negotiate with the Fraternal Order of Police, Administrators Association, and Classified School Employees Association regarding the impacts and effects of moving police services to the San Diego County Sheriff's Department.

Chancellor's Report

Chancellor Cindy Miles thanked the Board for its support regarding the recommendation to consider changes in the District's public safety contracts. She said there will be discussions with labor leaders and a presentation at the July Board meeting. Miles said the recommendations are in no way an indictment of the individuals currently working in the District's Public Safety Department, describing them as 10 very dedicated individuals. Miles said job protection is a priority and pledged to provide more details in upcoming reports. ♦ Miles recognized the work of Rearic on the contract for Proposition V management services with Gafcon, Inc., including months of preparing Request for Proposals and reviewing bids in a very public competition. Miles commended improvements in the contract, including the use of technology in terms of reporting and accountability. ♦ Miles reported on the recent First Friday Breakfast meeting of the East County Chamber of Commerce at Grossmont College attended by Congresswoman Susan Davis and Supervisor Dianne Jacob, and thanked Hiel for his participation.

Bond Funding Approved

Governing Board members approved on consent the issuing of the first series of General Obligation Bonds permitted by the passage of Proposition V by voters in 2012. The bond amount will not exceed $80 million.

Attorney David Casnocha of the law firm of Stradling Yocca Carlson & Rauth and Rod Carter, representing the underwriting team of RBC Capital Markets, De La Rosa & Co. and Piper Jaffray & Co., provided a summary on issuing the bonds. The resolution authorizes the bonds and approves the official underwriting statement provided to investors. The first series of bonds will be current interest bonds only. When the bonds are sold, the funds will be held in the County of San Diego treasury and invested by the County Treasurer per county policy; the District will withdraw the money as needed on a project-by-project basis over the next three years. Rosinski asked if the Governing Board would be apprised if a Capital Appreciation Bond sale was proposed; Casnocha said all details would be brought to the Board's attention as part of the authorization for each bond series and voted on.

If the District's debt service can meet a minimum threshold, be refinanced and reduced, this will be pursued. All savings would be returned to taxpayers. Casnocha said this will be done only if a minimum economic benefit is met.

Distance Education Report

Trustees reviewed the District's Distance Education efforts in a report presented by Christopher Tarman, Senior Dean for Research Planning and Institutional Effectiveness, and Kerry Kilber Rebman, Grossmont College Dean of Learning and Resource Technology. Enrollment trends at both campuses are slightly down from their highest point, but are picking up. The profile of students in online courses mirrors statewide averages, with more women than men enrolled, and more students 25 and older. Online courses have more withdrawals than regular courses. Tarman said students do not always understand the commitment expected of them. Success rates are similar to regular courses when withdrawals are not considered. The gap in the success rate between online courses and regular courses is about 10 percent and has been steady. Rebman said activities to address achievement gaps include regular effective contact between instructors and students; proper faculty preparation and support; help from the GCCCD Online Success Website; ongoing training; and student preparation tools. Rebman said the District is the first California community college to subscribe to the "Quality Matters" pilot program, a faculty-driven, peer-review process.

Hiel observed that certain student populations are well served by distance education, and the District needs to focus on retention and success rates. Hiel said he reviewed the online success quiz for students and complimented its effectiveness. Miles said distance education will continue to grow, and applauded the colleges' efforts to improve online learning success.

District Services Report

Vice Chancellor Sue Rearic reported that Board members have before them contract renewals for two long-time contractors: Gafcon, Inc., to manage the Proposition V construction program; and the Strata Information Group for technology management services. ♦ Rearic said Senior Director of Facilities Planning and Maintenance Dale Switzer has developed five-year plans for both campuses that include proposals for buildings that will allow the District to secure state funds augmenting Proposition V funding. Governing Board members will receive an overview report at next month's Board meeting.

Tim Corcoran, Interim Vice Chancellor Human Resources, recognized the 12 individuals who have retired from the District this fiscal year: David Arredondo, Jeanine Carson, Joann Cooper, Sheridan DeWolf, Connie Elder, Patrick Garity, Linda Greer, Linda Mitchell, Alba Orr, Jeannette Sandu, Ann Sharp, and Maurice Watkins. He said there will be many recruitments in the fall, and that Human Resources will be working on streamlining some of the processes to lessen the burden on hiring committees. ♦ Corcoran said the District received a hearing officer ruling that upheld the decision of the Governing Board to terminate an employee last November.
